"Pete Karanikas and his team have built the leading software engineering firm with a reputation for superior technical service and capabilities. Panos will be an outstanding addition that enhances our presence in the intelligence community as well as with several new customers, enabling us to take our business to the next level."

Pete Karanikas, CEO of Panos, commented "Our acquisition by Avrio will allow us to better serve our clients through a more complete set of product offerings and solutions. We are excited about the business combination and think that this will expand our reach into new and existing end markets."
